01 — BRAND FOUNDATION

What Flowra is. What it isn't.

Flowra is an AI-powered workflow automation tool built for small teams who are drowning in copy-paste, manual handoffs, and tab-switching. It sits in the category of tools like Zapier and Make — but positions itself as the version that doesn't require an engineer to set up and doesn't break when your apps update.

The one-line pitch

"Automate the work between your apps."
Nothing more. This line goes on every surface — nav, footer, meta tags, email subject lines.

The problem we solve

Your team runs on tabs and copy-paste. Data moves between apps manually. Flowra connects the gaps so your team focuses on work that matters.

Target user

Operations lead, founder, or head of growth at a 5–50 person company. Technical enough to know what an API is. Too busy to write one.

What we're not

Not an enterprise platform. Not a low-code tool for non-technical users. Not another dashboard. We are the connective tissue between tools your team already uses.

How Flowra thinks and speaks.

Flowra's tone is smart, direct, and confident. Think Linear or MiniMax — never startup-cute, never enterprise-stiff. We speak like a senior engineer who also happens to be a great communicator.

Dimension	We are	We are not	Example
Confidence	Direct, opinionated, clear	Hedging, over-explaining, qualifying everything	"Flowra connects in 60 seconds." not "Flowra may help you potentially connect your tools."
Density	One idea per sentence	Long paragraphs, nested clauses	"Drag. Drop. Done." not "Our intuitive visual builder makes it easy to create workflows."
Warmth	Human, grounded, helpful	Cold, corporate, jargon-heavy	"Your team runs on copy-paste. We fix that." not "Leverage synergistic automation capabilities."
Ambition	Quietly confident about the big picture	Hype, buzzwords, grandiose claims	"Every minute saved compounds." not "We're revolutionizing how teams work."

Four colors. Used with intention.

The palette is intentionally minimal. Black and white carry 90% of the visual weight. Coral is reserved for moments that earn it — featured product cards, badges, and primary hero CTAs only. Surface gray handles section backgrounds and card fills.

✓ Coral earns its surface

- Featured product cards (32px radius)
- Promo banners above nav
- "Most popular" pricing badges
- Icon placeholders in feature cards
- One hero CTA per page maximum

✗ Never use coral for

- Body text or headlines
- Standard nav buttons
- Section backgrounds
- Multiple CTAs on the same page
- Decorative borders or dividers

04 — TYPOGRAPHY

DM Sans. Always. Nothing else.

One typeface across every surface. DM Sans handles everything from 80px hero displays to 12px footer microcopy. Never introduce a second sans-serif. Code samples use system monospace only.

Buttons, cards, and the rules that govern them.

Buttons — always pill-shaped (border-radius: 9999px)

CARD ANATOMY — FEATURE CARD (32PX RADIUS)

Background: #ffffff · Border: 1px #e5e7eb · Radius: 32px · Padding: 32px
Icon circle: 40px · Coral #ff5530 (earns it — this is a product feature moment)
Title: DM Sans 600 16px · Description: DM Sans 400 14px #45515e

Standard card (16px radius)

Used for documentation cards, recommendation tiles, pricing tiers. White fill, 1px hairline border. NOT 32px — that radius is reserved for featured product moments.

Featured/product card (32px radius)

Doubled radius is the visual signal: "this is a featured product moment." Used for hero cards, pricing highlight tier, feature cards with coral accents.

The anatomy of a Flowra landing page.

Every page follows this section order. Don't invent new sections — iterate the ones below.
Section spacing: 96px above fold, 80px between sections below.

1	Navigation	White, sticky. Logo left · 3 links center · Login (outlined) + Start free (black pill) right.
2	Hero Section	80px headline · 18px subhead (slate) · Two CTAs · Browser mockup (32px radius placeholder).
3	Trust Strip	Surface gray (#f7f8fa) · "Trusted by teams at" + 5 company names in muted text.
4	Features Grid	3-column on desktop. 6 cards at 32px radius with coral icon circles. Section heading 40px.
5	Pricing Section	3 tiers. Growth tier: coral top border + "Most popular" coral badge. All cards 32px radius.
6	Footer	Black canvas (#0a0a0a). Logo + tagline left · 4-col link grid · Social icons · © line in muted.

07 — RULES

Non-negotiables for every output.

✓ Always

- Import DM Sans from Google Fonts in every HTML file
- Use border-radius: 9999px on all buttons and badges
- Use 32px radius on feature and product cards
- Use 16px radius on standard/doc cards
- Set hero headline at 600 weight with -2px letter-spacing
- Explain design decisions in one sentence before code

✗ Never

- Use a second typeface (not Inter, not Geist, not anything)
- Use gradients on text or buttons
- Use heavy drop shadows on white cards (flat + border only)
- Use coral on more than one CTA per page
- Use rectangular buttons (pill is the brand signature)
- Rewrite sections I didn't ask you to change
- Use violet, purple, or blue — those are not Flowra colors

- Add section IDs for anchor navigation
- Keep buttons at 11px 24px padding minimum

- Add JS unless I explicitly request it

08 — COPY RULES

How to write like Flowra.

Headlines

State the benefit, not the feature. "Your team runs on copy-paste. Flowra fixes that." — specific, punchy, one idea.

CTAs

Primary: action + benefit ("Get started free", "Start automating today").
Secondary: softer curiosity ("See how it works →").

Feature names

Verb-first or noun-first, never adjective-first.
"Visual workflow builder" not "Powerful intuitive drag-and-drop builder."

Descriptions

One sentence maximum per feature card. Make it scannable. If it needs two sentences, cut the first one.

Social proof

"Trusted by teams at Notion, Vercel, Linear, Stripe, Figma" — use recognizable brand names, no testimonial quotes needed on v1.

Pricing copy

"Simple pricing. No surprises." — anchor the heading. Sub: "Start free. Upgrade when you're ready." No feature comparison walls.
